SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTES

The Greater Media Newspapers collection records represent a behind-the-scenes look at several aspects of local newspaper publishing. The collection reflects the development of a weekly newspaper column which focused on the location, history and story behind many historic properties in the community. It also includes original sketches of editorial cartoons which satirize current local issues. In addition, this collection includes various community records: press releases, meeting notices, letters, statements and photographs, as well as research information on the D-Day invasion, June 6, 1944.

The collection is housed in 6 boxes and divided into five series: I. D-Day – Personal Recollections and Research Notes. II. Community Information. III. Photographs. IV. Houses. V. Editorial Cartoons.

Series Description

I. D-Day –Personal Recollections and Research Notes. 1994, n.d

Arranged by subject.

Series includes personal recollections of three veterans of D-Day: Harry Frank, Eugene Nowack and Barnett Hoffner, as well as research notes and published articles about June 6, 1944.

- Barnett (Barney) Hoffner was born on June 11, 1917 in Brooklyn, NY. He enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corp on February 23, 1943. He died on January 15, 1999.
- Harry Frank was a printer working in Freehold. He owned a print shop on Mechanic Street.
- Eugene Nowack was born on November 8, 1927 and died on October 31, 2002. A lifelong resident of Freehold, New Jersey, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy on January 10, 1942 and first served on the U.S.S. Rodman and then the U.S.S. Ludlow. He is buried in the Saint Rose of Lima Cemetery in Freehold, NJ.

II. Community Information. 1987-1992, n.d.

Arranged chronologically.

Series consists of meeting notices, press releases, letters and statements that were sent to Greater Media newspapers.

III. Photographs. 1997, n.d.

Arranged chronologically.

Series consists of three photographs.

The first photograph shows Rob Wolff, Pat Zachary, Felix Millan, Doug Flynn and Jason Isringhausen, former professional baseball players (1997).

The second photograph shows a band playing at Afridesia (n.d.).

The third photograph shows the cast of "Silent Laughter" a comedy performed at Brookdale Community College (n.d.)

IV. Houses. 1985-1995, n.d.

Arranged by town and then by street.

Series consists of original pen and ink artwork and photographs of properties and homes located in Monmouth County, New Jersey. The property was first photographed and then a sketch was made from that photograph. In most cases, the sketch was used at publication time and was accompanied by a story written about the history of the property.

Sometimes referred to as the "Old House" column, during 1991 and 1992 it could often be found on page 5. However, in later years the term "Old House" was dropped and the column's location within the paper varied.

Photographs were taken primarily by Rich Schultz.

Sketches were drawn by Susan Winter, Connie Wynn-Smith and Lauren Jaeger.

The sketches and photographs in this series appeared in the News Transcript, the Independent and the Register.

V. Editorial Cartoons. 1991-1999, n.d.

Arranged by subject.

Series contains original artwork of editorial cartoons published in several Greater Media Newspapers.

The cartoons in this series appeared in the Examiner, the Independent, News Transcript and the Sentinel, although many of the cartoons have an unknown publication date and newspaper.

They were primarily drawn by Dick Sommers and Carl Hennieke.
